Applebee's knows that guests are passionate when it comes to their food – and while you don't have to pick a side when ordering All You Can Eat Riblets & Chicken Tenders – most Americans do. That's why the brand wants to find out if America is more #TeamRiblets, #TeamTenders, or even both. To help decide, Applebee's is going straight to their guests for a little family friendly debate, and they have drafted the league's favorite brothers to help.

Applebee's has teamed up with brothers and professional football players, Chris Long and Kyle Long, to ask Applebee's fans the ultimate question: are they #TeamRiblets or #TeamTenders? The good news is, everyone wins – no matter what side you choose, it's All You Can Eat! In a video, which launches nationally today, the brothers take their skills from the gridiron to the table and face-off for their respective teams.

"We've been going at it since we were kids, and we're always up for a little friendly competition, on and off the field," said Chris Long, professional football player and spokesperson for Applebee's. "When Kyle and I were growing up, we always went to Applebee's after games with our Dad. It was perfect for filling us up, and Riblets and Chicken Tenders have always been two of our favorite things on the menu."

With Chris leading #TeamTenders, and Kyle captaining #TeamRiblets, the Long brothers are looking to build their team rosters with 20 super fans in a national sweepstakes that begins today. Fans who show their allegiance to their favorite plentiful team by posting on Twitter or Instagram with either #TeamRiblets or #TeamTenders and #Sweeps or #Sweepstakes between July 9 and July 31, 2018 will have the chance to be drafted to their teams. Twenty lucky winners will be added to the roster and receive a VIP Team Card for a year's worth of free Riblets or Chicken Tenders and gear to represent their squad. No purchase necessary.
