"Applebee's is truly one of ALSF's most dedicated partners, raising money every year since 2005," said Liz Scott, Alex's mom, and Co-Executive Director of Alex's Lemonade Stand Foundation. "While the fight against childhood cancer continues, so does the support of Applebee's restaurants and guests across the country. We are so grateful for their continued partnership to help find cures and support families during their child's treatment and beyond."

Alex's Lemonade Stand Foundation was established in 2005 to continue the mission of Alexandra "Alex" Scott. While fighting her own battle with neuroblastoma, Alex set up a lemonade stand in her front yard to raise money for "doctors to find a cure for all childhood cancers." Since her first stand, the Foundation has grown into one of the leading funders of pediatric cancer research in the country, raising more than $250 million and funding over 1,000 research projects. In 2021, one of those research projects led to the discovery of a cure for a specific type of neuroblastoma – the disease that Alex fought hard against. About Alex's Lemonade Stand Foundation

Alex's Lemonade Stand Foundation (ALSF) emerged from the front yard lemonade stand of 4-year-old Alexandra "Alex" Scott, who was fighting cancer and wanted to raise money to find cures for all children with cancer. Her spirit and determination inspired others to support her cause, and when she passed away at the age of 8, she had raised $1 million. Since then, the Foundation bearing her name has evolved into a national fundraising movement. Today, ALSF is one of the leading funders of pediatric cancer research in the U.S. and Canada raising more than $250 million so far, funding over 1,000 research projects and providing programs to families affected by childhood cancer.
